Respiratory Infections Cause Most Disabilities

AILMENT DEPT.: Did you know that?

Upper respiratory infections, such as influenza, pneumonia, grippe and bronchitis, are man's most persistent foe. They cause nearly one-fifth of all disabilities reported among men.

Ulcers and stomach or intestinal trouble are the second greatest cause of disability among men. More than one of every eight disabilities among men was caused by a fracture, dislocation or sprain. And ribs were the most frequently fractured bones.

I was reading a study of statistics compiled by Mutual of Omaha on benefits paid to policy owners and the above was gleaned from the report. The study covered more than 950,000 cases.

Here's more:
Men were disabled for heart disease 88 per cent more than women. But women were disabled more often for cancer. Twenty-two of every 1,000 women were disabled by cancer, compared to 19 of every 1,000 men.

Tonsils are the greatest cause of disability among children, and more so with girls than boys. Children have ear disorders two and a half more times than adults. Of every 1,000 men disabled, 54 are for fractures. For women, the figure is 88, and for children, 74. Eighty-eight of every 1,000 boys disabled are for fractures, compared to 57 for girls.

Most common fractures among children, in order, are: Arms, legs, fingers and wrists. Children dislocate or sprain their ankles twice as often as their backs. Adults, on the other hand, dislocate or sprain their backs twice as often as their ankles. Adults suffer rib fractures eight times as much as children, but fracture arms only one-fourth as much as children.

Women have more sinus trouble than men. Ulcers are a more frequent cause of disability among men than women. Gall bladder is a bigger factor in the disability of women than men.

Anyhow, that's what the study said.

AND HERE'S SOMETHING I bet you didn't know:

Physical co-ordination doesn't get worse with age, as many think, says the magazine, American Machinist. Tests indicate there is little change from age 18 to 50. Driver tests showed only a six-hundredth of a second difference in reaction time between people aged 23 and those of 65.

Potential New A-Fuel Placed on Market by Gov't

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government put on the market today a potential new atomic fuel which may multiply the world's nuclear power resources.

It offered to sell from its stocks limited quantities of thorium metal for $45 a kilogram (2.2 pounds). Thorium, a so-called "fertile material," can be transmuted in reactors to fissionable uranium-235. U-235 can be used to make weapons or to fuel nuclear power plants. Russia is known to be experimenting with thorium.

It has been estimated that successful "breeding" of U-235 out of thorium in atomic plants could boost the world's nuclear energy reserves 4 to 10 times.

Many authorities believe no long-lasting economic atomic power industry can be established without exploitation of thorium.

The only fissionable materials now in use are uranium-235 and plutonium. The Atomic Energy Commission last August announced a price of $25,000 a kilogram for U-235. It has not yet published the price at which it might buy or sell plutonium. It probably is costlier than U-235.

Selected to Run for Senator And Governor

Mallett, Howlett
Picked for Secretary
State, Auditor Posts

CHICAGO (AP)—Two relative newcomers to statewide politics will head the 1956 Illinois ticket of the Democratic organization.

Party slatemakers Tuesday picked State Rep. Richard Stengel, Rock Island, for U. S. senator, and Cook County Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen, Chicago, for governor.

Stengel, a 41-year-old lawyer now serving his fourth term in the Illinois House, never before has run for statewide office. Paschen, 50, was beaten for lieutenant governor in 1952.

The slatemaking committee of 22 Chicagoans and 8 downstate members cleared four days of meetings with the announcement of its endorsements. For other offices to be filled this year, it endorsed:

Lieutenant governor: Roscoe Bonjean, Springfield lawyer.

Secretary of state: David F. Mallett, East St. Louis auto dealer.

Howlett for Auditor

State auditor: Michael J. Howlett, Chicago, former Office of Price Stabilization official.

State treasurer: Arthur L. Hellner, Wheaton, real estate broker.

Attorney general: James L. O'Keefe, Chicago lawyer.

Supreme Court clerk: James Alexander, Lawrenceville, former state representative.

The endorsements were subject to approval today by the full membership of the party's state and Cook County committees. The day of both groups was expected to be automatic.

Organization backing normally is tantamount to nomination in the April Democratic primary. Nevertheless, at least one of those endorsed Tuesday can expect a primary fight—Paschen.

Reject Lucas and Mitchell

City Treasurer Morris B. Sachs had announced last week that he planned to enter the Democratic primary for governor, regardless of whether he got the blessing of the slatemakers.

Passed over with Sachs in the final decision of the slatemakers were two of the party's best-known Illinois members—former National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and former Sen. Scott W. Lucas.

Mitchell sought the gubernatorial nod while Lucas wanted another shot at the Senate seat he lost in the 1950 election.

Lucas withdrew his name from consideration Tuesday, however, when it became apparent that he

Ohio Court to Review Case Of Dr. Sheppard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today decided to review Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's case to see if the convicted wife-slayer received a fair trial.

The decision was the first major break for Sheppard since he was first accused of killing his pregnant wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954. The court now will study the widely publicized case in detail to determine whether or not Sheppard will get a new trial and tell the Common Pleas Court how it should be conducted. Or it may, after studying the case, decide to leave the life sentence standing.

There was no indication of when the court will give its final decision. But it was sure to be some time as the court must study the case in detail.

Dr. Sam is Ohio Penitentiary, just a few blocks away from the court where the judges made their decision.

The handsome Cleveland osteopath previously lost several attempts to get his life sentence lifted. His defense counsel had tried to prove that a bushy-haired man, not Dr. Sam, beat his wife to death.

Mrs. Sheppard was killed in their rambling house in suburban Bay Village a few hours after the Sheppards entertained friends at a supper party.

Sheppard said he fell asleep, and that an intruder came in, killed his wife, and knocked him unconscious twice.

Much More Tax Money Spent in County Than Property Tax Total

(An Editorial)

A news story on the amount of money collected by County Collector Maynard Cannon is carried below.

Bare mention of the word "taxes" has always made most of us mad, and continues to do so. However, it is interesting to study the distribution of the taxes and to realize the vast amount of services rendered the taxpayers, despite the knowledge that much tax money is spent inefficiently.

The story on tax collections relates only to that collected on property in the county. It does not include state sales, Federal income, social security and unemployment compensation taxes, nor gasoline or excise taxes.

However, it is entirely possible that more money is being returned to Saline county than is being collected.

For instance, through the office of the county Superintendent of Schools, there was distributed $607,643.35, representing $563,013.16 for flat grant and equalization of schools' educational funds, $25,514.60 for transportation of pupils, and $13,115.59 for assistance in special education of physically handicapped, students with defective vision, etc.

The Federal and State lunch funds amounted to $61,032.24, in addition to surplus commodities.

Illinois sent down $385,605.00 for direct relief; more than $275,000.00 for county and township roads.

Federal old age retirement funds and state old age assistance, aid to dependent children and other payments will run as much as $2,500,000.00 annually.

It is difficult to compile all figures, but it would be a fair estimate that five and one-half million dollars out of all types of tax funds is returned to Saline county for distribution through taxing bodies or by direct payments to individuals yearly.

That ain't hay.

$1,722,958 Personal and Property Taxes in Saline County for 1955

In Addition, Treasurer Handled More
Than $800,000 From Other Sources

The office of Maynard Cannon, county collector of Saline county, took in $1,722,958.62 in personal property and real estate taxes during the year ended December 1, 1955.

In addition, Mr. Cannon's office handled more than $800,000, received from the state of Illinois and other sources for distribution to taxing bodies or direct on order of the county for relief, motor fuel, tax, state motor fuel, state aid, etc.

This makes a total of more than two and one-half million dollars handled by the collector's office.

The collector does not set the amount of taxes, but collects the amounts shown on the books prepared for him by the County Clerk's office. The County Clerk prepares the books based on assessed valuations, levying the amounts the various taxing bodies require for operation—the levies being authorized and limited by law.

At the end of the year, the collector turns over to the treasurers of the various bodies the amounts collected, turning over to himself as county treasurer, the amount collected for the county as a corporate body, and expended by the County Board.

It will be noted that the schools of the county received $967,153.23, which is 56 per cent of the total taxes collected.

The list herewith shows the name of the treasurer receiving tax settlements, and the distribution of the settlements:

To Dismantle Coal Docks at Muddy

The coal docks at Muddy that had been used by steam locomotives will be dismantled, it was learned today. The docks have not been used for the past year and a half or two years.

Rails leading up into the docks are being removed at present. The structure is about 50 or 60 feet high with tracks going up an incline to the top. Motors pulled up cars of coal to the top, where the coal was dropped into a hopper. From there it was sent through a chute into the tenders of steam locomotives.

Ike Submits Great Plains Aid Program

Asks Congress
Action to Relieve Drought-Plagued Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today submitted to Congress a long-range federal program to help solve the "critical problems" of farmers in the drought-plagued Great Plains.

In letters to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Speaker Sam Rayburn, he said the 10-state Great Plains region has "special problems requiring special attention." He "strongly" urged congressional action this year.

Mr. Eisenhower noted that the Great Plains region, "a vast agricultural empire peopled by 17 million of our citizens," has been hard hit by drought and wind erosion that threaten to produce a new dust bowl.

He said the Agriculture Department already is taking steps to aid farmers in the region, and will do more. He said he will soon ask Congress for new appropriations to permit stepped-up activities.

Asks Two Bills

In addition to providing these funds, Mr. Eisenhower asked Congress to enact two bills:

1. Authority for the government to enter into "long term contracts" with farmers for diversion of croplands into trees, grass or other plantings for "soil and water conservation." At present, such conservation agreements are limited to a year at the time.

2. Authority to relax the requirement that farmers must actually plant their allotted wheat acreage each year in order to maintain their so-called "historic base acreage" for future allotments.

Mr. Eisenhower also transmitted to Senate and House leaders a letter from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson and an 11-page Agriculture Department report outlining the department's program for the Great Plains.

The Great Plains area included in the program covers parts of 10 states lying between the Prairie lands and the Rocky Mountains. The states are Montana, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Former Cairo
Mayor Dies

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—Funeral services will be held in Missouri for Egbert A. Smith, 59, a former mayor of Cairo, who died Tuesday after a long illness.

The funeral will be at 11 a. m. Friday in Christ Episcopal Church in Cape Girardeau.

Smith was mayor of Cairo for 11 years following a four-year term as a city commissioner. He resigned as mayor in June, 1954, to accept an appointment to the Mississippi River Commission.

He also was a past president of the Illinois Municipal League. Smith is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Definite Need for Scouting in the Community, Rev. Daugherty Tells Kiwanis

There is a definite need for Scouting in Saline and Gallatin counties, Rev. Glen Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian church, stated in an address to members of the Kiwanis club last night at the Masonic temple.

Scouting helps and supplements various other programs in a community, such as those in the churches, Rev. Daugherty stated.

Stressing the need for Scouting in Saline county, Rev. Daugherty pointed out that there are 3,000 boys of Scout age in the county, with only 256 engaged in Scouting activity in Saline and Gallatin counties which comprise the Sahara district. Only eight per cent of the boys in Saline county are engaged in Scouting activity which is two and a half times short of the national average, he said.

He pointed out that Williamson county has more than twice as many Scouts as Saline county and nearly twice as many Scout units.

He stated that Cub Scouting is also a parent program whereby the mother and father help their sons in their achievements. The Boy Scout program goes further into Scouting activity including camping and the Explorer for older boys helps make them better citizens.

Rev. Daugherty stated that the Egyptian Council of 15 southern-most counties has set up a budget of $94,000 for the fund campaign

Dulles Rejects Suggestions by Russia, India to Suspend H-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today rejected suggestions by Russia and India that the United States suspend future H-bomb tests.

Dulles also said he believes the United States is ahead of Russia in development of nuclear weapons.

Dulles told a news conference that the United States believes it is imperative to keep in the forefront of scientific and other knowledge in the nuclear field, pending development of a safe disarmament system.

Moscow leaders have proposed stopping H-bomb tests. India's United Nations delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon, only Tuesday appealed for the United States and Russia to ban experimental H-blasts. The United States, however, has been reported planning to set off a super H-blast in the Pacific this year.

Economic Aid Struggle

Dulles also: 1. Said President Eisenhower believes the East-West competition over economic aid for underdeveloped countries is a fearful struggle in which defeat could be "disastrous." Dulles said he and the President believe the American people have got to wake up to the seriousness of the economic aid competition.

2. Said there has been no decision on Israel's request for arms aid. He said the United States will give the Israeli request a new look after the U. N. Security Council acts on the Israeli-Syrian dispute—but not before then.

3. Expressed doubt that Red China is trying to break off the Geneva talks with the United States on freeing American prisoners and other issues. These talks, however, are disappointing because the Reds have failed to release all prisoners they hold.

4. Said the United States would consider joining the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact if such action

On other farm commodities, the department reported: Total inventory 741,547.974 bushels, valued at $1,267,253,671. Loans on 129,536,013 bushels totaled $199,887,517.

Butter, cheese and dried milk: Total inventory 738,901,645 pounds, valued at $289,995,376. The department said figures on dairy products do not reflect commitments which have been made but not yet fulfilled.

Arrest Four for Gasoline Thefts
Near Stonefort

The county sheriff's office, after investigating for two or three weeks, has arrested four in connection with gasoline thefts in the area around Stonefort, Sheriff William T. Barrett announced today.

Arrested yesterday were Ralph Evitts, 24, who resides in Williamson county near Stonefort, and three Carrier Mills high school boys.

The boys signed statements admitting five specific incidents of gasoline thefts, Barrett said, but there were indications that there were considerably more thefts. They said they stole from farm tractors and storage tanks, from automobiles and trucks.

The boys implicated Evitts, who denies the charges, Barrett said. The boys in their statements said they would go out in the Evitts automobile, in which a tank and hose were kept, and steal the gasoline, which was placed in the gasoline tank of Evitts' machine.

Army to Draft 6,000,
Navy 10,000 in March

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today issued a draft call for 16,000 men in March—6,000 for the Army and 10,000 for the Navy.

The March call will bring to 2,014,430 the total number of men drafted since the start of the Korean War.

Plane Destroyed On Sandbar; Body Sighted

Reports Indicate
Dead Include
Head of Mission

GUYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Indians in Ecuador's "wild east" have massacred an undetermined number of Americans, it was reported today.

Fragmentary reports indicated the dead included T. Edward McCully, Wauwatosa, Wis., who headed a small Evangelical Brethren Mission on the Oglala River, in the outskirts of Aca Indian territory.

McCully's brother, Jay McCully, said at Wauwatosa the group thought it had made friends with the Indians.

The group's plane was found destroyed by the Indians on a sandbar in the Oglala River. One body with a spear in it was sighted near the wreckage.

McCully identified the other men aboard the plane as pilot Nate Saint, Fullerton, Calif., Roger Youdarin, Billings, Mont., Peter Fleming, Seattle, Wash., and James Elliott, Portland, Ore.

McCully said his brother's wife, Marlicu, 26, was not aboard the plane as previously reported. Knew It Was Dangerous

"All of the wives were together at a contact station at Shellmora, Ecuador," young McCully, 25, said at the family home in Wauwatosa. He said the missionaries had been flying over the territory "for several months."

"The last word heard of them was Sunday afternoon," young McCully said. "They radioed the contact station that everything was okay and that they would call back at 4 o'clock."

"They called back at 4 and said another band of Indians was approaching which they had never seen before," he said. "That was the last heard from them."

McCully said the family had received the information about his brother, 23, by short wave radio and telephone.

"They knew it was dangerous work," McCully said. "But they thought they had made friends with the Indians. They had been flying over the territory for months."

"They had exchanged gifts with the Indians, dropping them from the plane and pulling up gifts the Indians tied to trailing strings," he said. "They got an Indian head-dress and a few other things from the Aucas."

"A couple of fellows had spent the night on the sandbar without harm," he said.

Tried to Convert Them

McCully said he did not know just how long the group had been landing on the sandbar. "We had a tape recording from Ed at Christmas and he asked us to 'pray for us,'" McCully said.

He said the last time the family had seen his brother's family was Christmas a year ago when the parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McCully Sr., Wauwatosa, visited Ed, Marlicu and their children, Stephen, 3, and Michael, 1, in Ecuador.

The McCullys had been stationed at the little settlement of Aranjum, Ecuador, long before the Guyaquil project.

Ed McCully was born in Des Moines, Iowa, and moved to Milwaukee with the family in 1940 when he was 13 years old. He was an outstanding orator in his college days at Wheaton College in Illinois and Marquette University in Milwaukee.

Some members of the party were believed affiliated with a special religious-scientific group which flew into Ecuador some time ago under the auspices of the World Translators of Glendale, Calif. Scientists were studying the origins of the Aca language while religious members of the group sought to convert the Indians to Christianity.

The U. S. Air Force was asked to send planes from Panama to pick up any survivors.

In Washington, the National Geographic Society described the Aucas as the world's most blood-thirsty killers. They are always on the warpath. They hate everybody. Occasionally they prey on each other "like maddened beasts."

The meeting is open to everyone in Saline county. The election of three directors to the district board will be conducted. All persons who hold title to lands in Saline county and all persons other than owners in Saline county whether as lessee, renter, tenant or otherwise are eligible to vote in this election.

Tickets for the dinner which cost $1.25 can be obtained from the directors and neighborhood group leaders of the district, the Farm Bureau office, or the district office in the city hall.

Army Seeks to Develop 1,500 Mile Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor said today the Army is putting "everything we've got" into development of a ballistic missile that will rocket 1,500 miles.

Taylor, Army chief of staff, said there is "no limit" to the type of targets the missile could be aimed against.

He made the statement in summarizing 1956 Army goals at the first Pentagon news conference he has held since becoming Army chief last summer.

Taylor said the Army "in partnership with the Navy" is using its giant 60-foot Redstone rocket as a pattern for developing a "medium range," 1,500-mile missile.

He said the Army urgently needs a wide span of missiles with "tremendous destructive firepower." These will enable American forces to attack "High into the enemy air space and deep into the vital sources of strength of our enemy ground forces," he said.

Military men call Ballistic missiles "the ultimate weapon." Equipped with atomic or hydrogen bomb warheads, they could cover huge distances at supersonic speeds. There is at present no known defense against such missiles.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson recently ordered a stepped-up effort to ballistic missiles, including one of "intercontinental" range. Russia is also believed to be making progress on them.

Eden Orders 2,000 Airborne Troops to Cyprus

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Anthony Eden moved today to bolster British prestige in the boiling Middle East and to strengthen his own prestige at home.

He ordered 2,000 airborne troops to Cyprus, Britain's last major stronghold in the Middle East and only two hours flying time from any Middle Eastern capital.

Eden summoned a cabinet meeting this afternoon to speed up policy decisions at home and abroad before he travels to Washington Jan. 24 for talks with President Eisenhower.

Informed sources said his decision to beef up Britain's armed manpower in the Middle East stemmed directly from the buffeting Britain took over its policy in the Arab kingdom of Jordan where young King Hussein's traditionally pro-British regime is believed wavering.

The war Office announced Tuesday night that fresh troops were going to Cyprus because of the "disturbed position" in the Middle East.

Their presence in Cyprus will strengthen any decisions on the Middle East Eden reaches in his conferences with President Eisenhower with whom he is expected to map joint Anglo-American policy for the area.

Following prayer by Mrs. Sutton scriptures were read and topics which were in the form of letters received from missionaries were given by Mrs. Donald Boyd, Mrs. Pat Gilley, Miss Barbara Fearheiley, Mrs. George Aud, Mrs. D. H. Hiller and Mrs. Sutton.

The circle reviewed and concluded the missionary book, "Light in Yumuri," which told of the missionary work being done in the Yumuri Valley in Cuba.

Mrs. Williams, assisted by Mrs. James Sowers and Chloe Clayton, served sandwiches, potato chips and Cokes, to those mentioned and to Mrs. Ron Ziegler.

Pretzels once were used as a reward, when monks gave them to children who mastered their prayers.

Gen. Gates Fined, Reprimanded

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (AP)—Major Gen. Byron E. Gates, 60, was reprimanded and fined $500 Tuesday for mishandling his administration while commander of Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Gates was retired from the Air Force last June, but was recalled to active duty to face charges of wrongfully using his rank and influence to sponsor private insurance companies and building projects. He was accused of accepting $6,000 for promoting one insurance sale.

He was tried under Article 15 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, which provides for non-judicial punishment of an offense by the defendant's commanding officer.

The punishment was imposed by Lt. Gen. Charles T. Meyers, commander of the Air Force Training Command which has jurisdiction over Chanute Field.

Maj. Gen. John H. McCormick, commander of Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., reported at a pre-trial investigation that the offenses committed called for non-judicial punishment rather than court martial.

Gates can appeal the fine and the reprimand to the Air Force chief of staff.

Wholesale Food Price Index Drops

CHICAGO (AP)—Austin L. Wyman has been asked by Gov. William G. Straton to take over the chairmanship of the Illinois Toll Highway Commission.

Wyman, a lawyer and former president of the Chicago Crime Commission, today confirmed reports of the offer to succeed ex-Congressman Evan Howell in the post.

Wyman, 56, Glencoe, was unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator in 1954, and was considered for the GOP nomination for state's attorney this year.

Howell, whose chairmanship of the commission came under fire, has announced he intends to resign shortly.

San Francisco Routs Santa Clara, 74-56, for 38th Win; One More Will Tie Record

By United Press
San Francisco's national championship now own the second longest winning streak in major college history — 38 games — and can tie the all-time record by beating Fresno State on Friday.

A 74-56 rout of Santa Clara Tuesday night, so easy that San Francisco led by 26-2 after the first eight minutes of play, moved the Dons within one game of the major-college mark of 39 straight victories set by the 1935-36 Long Island U. team and tied by the 1940-41 Seton Hall squad.

The champions are prohibitive choices to tie the record by crushing Fresno State and then they'll be heavy favorites to beat California on Jan. 28 for a new record.

Top Team Wins
San Francisco's easy triumph keyed a night of success for teams high in the national rankings. Four others came through with expected triumphs.

Southern Methodist, ranked No. 7, continued to set the pace in the Southwest Conference as its racehorse attack downed Texas A & M, 97-68. The Aggies held the Mustangs close for a while with a zone defense, but Larry Showalter's 24 points led SMU, which scored 57 points in the second half.

Duke, No. 8, and North Carolina, No. 10, both scored important victories in the Atlantic Coast Conference, as they pressed Maryland for the loop lead. Duke downed Carolina, 63-52, and North Carolina routed Virginia, 101-65. Holy Cross, No. 11, had a 105-61 romp over Rhode Island.

Other Top Games
In other leading games: George Washington downed Wake Forest, 78-74, to halt the Deacons' upset string that included wins over both Duke and North Carolina; Dick Gaines' 33 points led Seton Hall to an 84-73 triumph over Xavier of Ohio at Madison Square Garden; Manhattan took an 85-79 over-

Warriors Beat Hawks, 109-107

By United Press
It was only a year ago that the Philadelphia Warriors were plunging toward last place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. but today they're opening up an imposing first-place lead on the field.

The Warriors staged a brilliant comeback to beat the St. Louis Hawks, 109-107, in overtime Tuesday night to take a three-and-a-half game grip on first place. They've won 22 of 32 games played this year compared to a 13-19 record after 32 contests last season.

The Warriors trailed by 13 points with six-and-a-half minutes left but rallied to tie the score at 100-100 on two late free throws by Jack George and then outscored the Hawks, 9-7, in overtime. Neil Johnston led the Warriors with 35 points and Bob Pettit tallied 26 for St. Louis.

The Fort Wayne Pistons beat the Boston Celtics, 105-89, and the Minneapolis Lakers downed the Syracuse Nationals, 90-78, in a doubleheader played at Fort Wayne.

The Pistons built a 33-36 half-time lead and staved off a second-half rally to hand the Celtics their 13th defeat in 31 games.

The Lakers gradually drew away in the last period to drop the Nationals one and a half games into the Eastern Division cellar.

Stevenson Steps Up Attacks on Ike's Program

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson stepped up the pace of his drive for the presidency today, jumping in to attack Eisenhower administration policies almost as soon as they are announced.

His latest blast was directed at President Eisenhower's farm program. The program was given to Congress Monday and Stevenson charged Tuesday night that it amounts to "election year" wooing of the farmers.

It was Stevenson's second direct attack on Mr. Eisenhower in three days. On Sunday, he branded the President's State of the Union message as "political" and "misleading."

The quickened tempo of Stevenson's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination also took the form of an announcement that he will go to Minnesota Tuesday to lay the groundwork for a possible primary victory.

Stevenson will file his name personally in St. Paul for the state's March 20 primary, one of five he plans to enter. The former Illinois governor will also file a slate of 57 Stevenson-pledged delegates, including Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Gov. Orville Freeman.

In his statement Tuesday night, Stevenson said "the President's farm message is recognition, at last, that the farmer needs help—at least in an election year."

But he charged that all the administration proposals were originally offered by Democrats and added that there is "serious doubt" that they will be of immediate help to the farmers.

"The administration has had to reverse its field," Stevenson said, since "only a few months ago the Department of Agriculture was opposing the soil bank proposal which is the major element of the new program."

He charged "the administration still appears to be worrying more about the farm surplus than the farmer."

But he added he is sure Democrats in Congress will support any parts of the program which promise real relief to our farm families.

Gov't Donates 500 Million Pounds Food To Needy, Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government donated almost 500 million pounds — the equivalent of 10,000 freight carsloads — of surplus foods to needy persons in the United States during fiscal year 1955, a check of records showed today.

Another 200 million pounds — 6,666 carsloads — of surplus foods was given to schools participating in the school lunch program.

The relief and welfare donations went to more than 1 million needy persons in institutions and to about 2½ million needy persons in family units. The food in the school lunches was consumed by about 11 million children.

The food came from the surplus stocks of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Credit Corp.

Lauderdale Rites at Metropolis Thursday

The funeral of Mrs. Alonzo Lauderdale who died Monday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Otis Wiseman, in Metropolis, will be held Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Immanuel Baptist church in Metropolis. The pastor, J. R. Jenkins, will officiate, assisted by O. L. Angel of the Christian church there, and interment will be in the Macedonia cemetery.

Krikie Rites Held at Shawneetown

Funeral services for William Krikie, Shawneetown resident who died suddenly Monday while working on a Gallatin county farm near Shawneetown, were held today at 2 p. m. at New Shawneetown General Baptist church. Rev. James Riley, assisted by Rev. Roy Deal, conducted the service and burial was in Westwood cemetery.

Wed 80 Years, Never a Quarrel

SAGLE, Idaho — W — The Benjamin F. Hartleys, who believe they are the nation's longest-married couple, confess they never have had a quarrel in their 80 years together.

"We got all that out of the way before we married," said Mrs. Hartley.

The couple celebrated their anniversary with the comment they wouldn't trade a minute of those years, which began Nov. 24, 1875, when Ben rode up to the home of his sweetheart, Drusilla, in Loudon County, Tenn., and took her as his bride.

They were 16 then, and they headed to Kansas to pioneer a farm and rear their family. They moved to another farm in western Kansas in the 1880's, but gave up farming in 1937 and came here to live at the home of their "baby" son, Joe, who is nearly 60.

"It has been a wonderful marriage," said Mrs. Hartley. "Grandpa and I have more than 100 descendants, but it's hard to believe it's been such a long time."

Her husband's health is failing and he is confined to his bed. "We never had a real argument," she said. But she admitted "Grandpa" didn't approve of her wearing overalls when she went horseback riding "because it was such a job to ride side saddle with all those skirts."

"When short skirts came in I was scandalized, but they are so practical I'm all for them now," she said. "Those old skirts were a real problem on wash days. We didn't even have washboards. We made our own lye soap and used a board to pound the material on rocks."

Grandma Hartley marvels at the wonders science has produced since her marriage—"everything from the gramophone to television."

But she still prides herself on her old-fashioned sassafras tea. She serves it with a slice of homemade chocolate cake set out on a blue-willow-patterned china plate.

"I've used sassafras tea since I was a girl," she said. "The shrubs grew wild and took over the farm land if they had a chance. Nowadays you have to buy it at a drug-store."

Mrs. Hartley says the blessings of mechanical progress are fine, since they permit more leisure time.

"But I think more of that time should be spent at home," she said. "Home is where the heart is, and no amount of gadding about will change that. If people were more satisfied with what they have, they would make a better home."

75-Year-Old Widow Breezes to $32,000 On Television Quiz

NEW YORK W — A sprightly, 75-year-old widow who lives in a home for the aged breezed to the $32,000 ladder on a television quiz show Tuesday night and won the right next week to try for the $64,000 question.

Mrs. Mabel Gertrude Morris, who was born in England, never hesitated in answering a string of tough questions on her chosen subject, "Charles Dickens."

John E. Von Rueden, a 22-year-old Army Signal Corps lieutenant from Grand Forks, N. D., won $8,000 for answering questions on geography.

Seeks Damages

Lessie Hodge seeks $5,000 damages for injuries and $405.35 auto damage from Mrs. Frank Clore in a complaint on file in circuit court. The complaint arose from a collision at Harrison and Main streets in Carroll Mills Dec. 15, 1954. Filing the complaint was the law firm, Rumsey and Dennis, and Atty. Harry McCabe.

Youth Killed by Auto When Thrown From Car in Accident

DALLAS CITY, Ill. W — John R. Anderson, 17, was killed Tuesday night when he was struck by a car seconds after he had been thrown from another car onto the highway after an accident.

State police said Anderson, Dallas City, was trying to pass John Horan, 20, Dallas City, on Ill. 9 about three miles from here when he collided head-on with a car driven by Gerald Schroeder Jr., also of Dallas City.

Schroeder was injured in the collision, and Anderson was thrown from his car. As he lay on the highway, Donald E. Dobson, 18, Burnside, drove over Anderson's head and plowed into the Anderson car.

Hoffman Resigns as Assistant to Hodge

SPRINGFIELD W — Elmer Hoffman, Wheaton, who will run for state treasurer as part of Gov. William G. Stratton's 1956 Republican "team" resigned Tuesday as an administrative assistant to State Auditor Orville E. Hodge.

Hoffman, a former state treasurer, said he wants to devote full-time to his campaign.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Oliver Rollins

Oliver Rollins, high scoring center of the Carrier Mills high school basketball team, has scored more than 2,000 points in his varsity career.

He went over the 2,000 mark Saturday night, Jan. 7. There had been considerable speculation about his entering that select group of cagers who have scored 2,000 or more points during their high school days and on the basis of unofficial figures being used he fell 10 short of the mark Saturday.

But a recheck of the records indicate that he went 11 OVER the 2,000 mark.

About a year ago, Jan. 21, 1955, to be exact, Rollins scored 52 points against Sesser to establish a new Carrier Mills high school record. A couple of nights later Rollins came up with 47 against McLeansboro, to give him the astounding total of 99 points in two games.

This was news! So this writer made a check of The Daily Register files and came up with the information that Oliver Rollins had scored a total of 1,281 points to that time. This included 387 points in 26 games as a freshman, 502 points in 24 games as a sophomore and 392 points to that time—15 games—as a junior.

The story wasn't questioned. Everyone knew "The Cat" had scored lots of points and 1,281 is a lot of points. I was satisfied it was correct and apparently everyone else felt the same way.

This year, with Rollins gaining state-wide attention for his high scoring and all-round fine play, officials at the Carrier Mills high school decided it would be best to check all official records. They didn't want it said one of their players had accomplished something, when actually maybe he hadn't, so they carefully checked over their records.

Monday afternoon late my telephone rang and it was Warren Jennings, principal of CMCHS. Said he wanted to check with me on the Rollins' record. Believed the player had already gone over 2,000.

Their records showed Rollins had played in 25 games as a sophomore, while my records indicated only 24. The school was correct. In going through the files a year ago I had completely missed one game on the Carrier Mills schedule—either the Galatia or Harrisburg game. Rollins scored the same number of points against each club that year—22.

Also in comparing records, the official school records and unofficial newspaper records were off one point in another instance. The Register box score gave Rollins one more point than the official record indicated.

So by picking up 22 points for a game completely overlooked and dropping a free throw, Rollins started the 1955-56 season with a total of 1,600. Add to that 411 points scored in 12 games to date and he has the amazing total of 2,011 to his credit.

It is really too bad the error was made a year ago. Rollins passed the 2,000 mark last Saturday and no one was aware of it.

It would have been a dramatic moment! But maybe it is just as well. There would have been a terrific pressure and there's enough tension at a thrilling basketball game without having a side issue to add to it.

Congratulations to Rollins and his teammates. He has done a

Shawneetown, Galatia, Pope Co., Rosiclare Win Conference Games

Shawneetown, highly ranked among the top teams in the state, continues to dominate play in the Greater Egyptian Conference, standing alone at the top of the loop standings with a record of nine victories and no losses.

Tuesday night Shawneetown racked up its ninth conference victory and 15th of the season by taking Ridgway into camp 66-40.

All teams of the conference engaged in loop competition last night. Galatia, Pope Co. and Rosiclare were victors in other games. Galatia squeezed past Equality 63-62. Pope Co. won from Cave-in-Rock 58-48 and Rosiclare defeated Vienna 64-40.

Shawneetown took all doubt out of its game early, rolling to a 20-4 first quarter lead over neighboring Ridgway. Gunzel and Nolen, with 19 and 17 points respectively, paced the winning Shawneetown team. Mills was tops for Ridgway with 13.

Crane played his last home game for Shawneetown last night as he will complete his eligibility with the end of this semester. Shawneetown will play at Equality Friday and then compete in the GEC tourney at Ridgway next week.

Crane was tops for the winners with 18 points and Konkrite paced the Rockers with 18 markers.

John Tate, who had missed the last two Galatia games due to illness, played part time last night and sparked his club to a close 63-62 victory over visiting Equality.

Tate got into action in the last quarter long enough to sink three field goals in a 15-point final frame to get the win for Galatia.

The winners led 23-19 at the quarter, but trailed 43-37 at the half and 52-48 after three quarters.

McFarland, with 18 points, was tops for Galatia and Milligan of Equality took scoring honors for the game with 21.

Rosiclare pressed all over the floor in gaining its 64-40 victory over Vienna. The winners took control of the game early, holding a 16-5 quarter lead.

In an earlier season game Vienna solved the Rosiclare press somewhat and came out with a 55-53 decision, but Rosiclare wasn't to be denied last night and carried off the victory, 64-40.

Plan to Move Capital of Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Plans to transfer Brazil's capital from Rio de Janeiro to the central highlands are well along, the Transfer Commission's president reported Tuesday night.

Marshal Jose Pessoa said that expropriation of the 400-square-mile site has been completed and a two-mile-long landing strip has been laid out. The next step is the laying out of streets and sewers.

The new city, modeled after Washington, is located on the so-called Formosa central plateau. It is one mile above sea level, assuring cool temperature throughout the year.

Survey Develops Divorce Theories

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Unhappily married parents who avoid divorce "for the sake of the children" may be doing the youngsters an injustice, according to Judson T. Landis, associate professor of family sociology at the University of California College of Agriculture.

After studying results of a home life questionnaire answered by 3,000 students from 11 colleges and universities, Judson said:

"This research suggests doubt about the desirability of parents' remaining together for the sake of the children."

The study showed that children of cleanly separated parents had certain advantages over those of unhappily married mothers and fathers. But it also revealed that the two different situations usually cast the youngsters from each into just about the same problems. This indicates, evaluators suggest, that it is not necessarily the act of divorce, but the tense home atmosphere it springs from that will show up as children mature and start facing life's problems.

Other Findings
The fact that children from unhappy or broken homes failed to display as much confidence in marriage and religion was also brought out in the student-answered survey. These young people had more trouble making friends of the opposite sex in adolescence, maintained a further separated relationship with their parents and would more readily accept unorthodox marriages than children from happy homes.

Other major findings of the questionnaire, were:

1—Children from unhappy domestic situations scored lowest in desirable and highest in undesirable attitudes as far as sex in wedlock was concerned.

2—The amount and quality of sex education received in the home by a youth depended upon how happy and stable his parents were. Only 23 per cent of the poll subjects who came from unstrained homes received no sex teaching.

3—The greatest number of virgins came from happy homes, but the margin was not great in relation to the other groups. This lack of notable difference, said Landis, tended to deflate other studies that showed sexually promiscuous girls to be the products of unhappy homes.

Train Kills Woman

SPRING VALLEY, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Vaselski, 70, was struck and killed by a Rock Island railroad streamliner Tuesday. Neighbors said the elderly woman had been gathering fodder, and believed she had sat down on the tracks to rest and failed to hear the approaching train.

Knight Executive Editor Journalism Speaker at SIU

Basil L. Walters

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Basil L. Walters, Chicago, executive editor of Knight Newspapers, will be the Elijah P. Lovejoy Lecturer in Journalism at Southern Illinois university January 18-20. The Knight Newspapers chain publishes a number of metropolitan dailies in the Midwest and south, including the Chicago Daily News.

The Lovejoy lectureship, established by the SIU journalism department in 1954, annually brings to the campus one or more prominent journalists for three days to lecture to journalism classes, address a student convocation, and hold conferences with students interested in journalism.

A past president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Walters has been a battling proponent of the cause of freedom of information. As the Society's first chairman of its Freedom of Information Committee, this working editor launched a campaign to persuade editors and publishers to educate themselves about the part this kind of freedom plays in the preservation of all American freedom. He warned editors to resist tendencies in government at all levels to withhold important information from the public.

Just before coming to SIU Walters will be in Phoenix, Ariz., to receive the University of Arizona Journalism department's annual John Peter Zenger Award for his contributions to the cause of press freedom. He is a graduate of the University of Indiana, where he later was awarded the honorary doctor of laws and letters degree.

Survey Shows Distribution Of Illinois Coal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — A report on the distribution of the 41,500,000 tons of coal produced in Illinois during 1954 was issued today by Dr. W. H. Voskuil, mineral economist for the State Geological Survey.

Bulk of the production, some 39,500,000 million tons, was sold on the open market. The remaining two million tons went to companies affiliated with the coal mines.

Dr. Voskuil said his report is based on figures just released by the U. S. Bureau of the Census.

Electric utility companies bought 45 per cent of the Illinois coal output to use in steam plants for generating electricity. Retail coal dealers took 17 per cent for resale to domestic and small business and commercial users. Railroads took 7 per cent. The affiliated companies and miscellaneous markets took 31 per cent.

Illinois coal was used in 13 neighboring states in 1954. Largest markets were states to the north and west of Illinois which have little or no coal of their own. About 95 per cent of the output was used

Fund for Republic Still Has $10 Million To Spend: Hutchins

CHICAGO (AP)—The Fund for the Republic has 10 million dollars more to spend, and may use up its present resources by 1960.

Robert M. Hutchins, head of the fund, came here for an address sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union, and discussed the workings of the fund and its resources.

Newsmen understood Hutchins to say that the fund, originally granted 15 million dollars by the Ford Foundation, had committed 10 million dollars to date. Today, however, he said:

"I said yesterday we have committed about 5 million dollars and have about 10 million left. Either I was misunderstood or I made a slip of the tongue. The figures were reversed as they appeared."

He told newsmen he recently was re-elected to another year term as the fund's president.

New Illinois Drainage Code Affects Practically Entire State

By United Press

The new Illinois drainage code, an attempt to make legal sense out of 77 years of scatter-shot law-making, had an effect on practically the entire state when it became law Jan. 1.

Hundreds of drainage districts, created to build ditches and other water control facilities, blanket most of the state, covering both urban and rural areas.

But their effectiveness in handling the important, and sometimes disaster-preventing, job of water control has been hamstrung by a maze of legislation few lawyers could untangle.

An Illinois Bar Assn. committee worked five years on the job of compiling a single code containing all needed drainage district legislation. The 1955 General Assembly passed the code, which repealed 26 separate drainage acts passed since enactment of the constitution of 1870.

Lists the Features

Donald V. Dobbins, Champaign, chairman of the bar association committee, listed as some of the essential features of the new code:

1. Discarding of distinctions between many types of districts; and making procedures in all districts uniform, with identical rights, powers and duties. Districts may still combine as "outlet districts" and may split themselves into "sub-districts" but other titles are junked.

2. All districts will now be under supervision of county courts, with commissioners expressly made officers of the court. Formerly, some districts were organized as independent bodies.

3. Districts must file records with county clerks, with county collectors and treasurers acting as district collectors and treasurers.

4. In districts organized with elected commissioners, the commissioners will continue to be elected; but in other districts and in new districts, the county courts will appoint commissioners.

Raise Commissioners' Pay

5. Districts will be organized through the county courts, by petition, by contract among landowners, and by an added method—petition for referendum by only 10 per cent of the landowners who own at least 20 per cent of the land.

6. The pay for commissioners, who except by special waiver must be district landowners and Illinois residents, is raised from $3.50 per day to $8 a day.

7. Drainage districts remain special assessment districts, without power for general annual taxation, and assessments are limited to "original," "annual maintenance" and "additional." No land may be assessed more than its just proportion of the total. With a single exception—for "repairs" in a district organized under one of the old acts—all tax levies must be court-approved.

Provide for Competitive Bidding

8. Railroads, public highways and lands are subject to levies.

9. New provision is made for assessments on land where ownership is divided.

10. All contracts over $11,000 must be let by competitive bidding.

11. Cities, villages, sanitary districts and other corporate bodies which accept responsibility for storm water damage may be detached from drainage districts.

12. Landowners may use district ditches, but may not construct permanent structures without commission permission, must remove fences on order of the commission and can pasture livestock on ditch right-of-ways if responsibility for damage is assumed.

13. Landowners may build tile drains through lands of others.

14. Landowners outside districts shall have the same rights of drainage as those inside districts insofar as drainage district projects change natural drainage.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things that are above. Col. 3:1.

The ceremony of baptism illustrated the death of sin and rising again in Christ-like purity. It is not the water that purifies, but the faith that gives substance to that hope.

The Age of Giants

Editorial By Bruce Blossat
The facts about the great post-war merger trend in business and industry are not challenged by their meaning in the controversy. Democrats say the trend is a downright menace to competition. Republicans see it as indicating need for caution.

A House Judiciary subcommittee studying the subject found that in the past five years, since January, 1951, more than 3000 U. S. companies in manufacturing, mining, trade and services have been engaged in the merger tide.

These figures constitute a record for the last 25 years in American economic history. Of course, record figures do not in themselves necessarily indicate peril. Almost everything else about our economy is at peak levels in this period of tremendous development.

The Democratic majority on the subcommittee thinks the increase in mergers is contributing markedly to the "growing concentration of economic power" in this country.

It chides both the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission for allegedly having made only "token gestures" toward enforcing the Celler-Kefauver Anti-merger Act of 1950.

Republican subcommittee members believe, however, that their opposite numbers are oversteering the danger for political purposes. They see the report as designed to buttress the standard Democratic position that the GOP is the party of big business, and that under a Republican regime monopoly is bound to be encouraged while competitors of the larger firms are gobbled up.

The man standing in the middle, trying to discount the political overtones and arrive at a sound appraisal of the merger matter, cannot help but be puzzled.

Many factors are at work in this merger trend. Admittedly some businessmen will always try to make their markets more secure by reducing competition if they can. This tendency must be resisted by public effort, and that is why we have antitrust laws.

But there seems to be something at least equally significant: the rising cost of starting a business and keeping it going. Wages and material prices are at such a high plane that all sorts of firms which managed to stay alive in earlier years no longer can make it.

It is hard to see what Congress or anybody else can do about this. The nature of this country is changing, and with it the nature of the economy. Neither antitrust nor anti-merger laws can effectively impede such fundamental changes in the country's structure.

Mergers are continuing, and they are going to continue. The day of the truly mammoth corporation is here. Perhaps the fruitful course for the government to follow is not to try to prevent their growth — which may be impossible — but to see that somehow the essence of competition is maintained within the larger frame.

The present competitive situation in such fields as the automobile industry is powerful evidence that this is a goal which can indeed be realized.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Winter driving, of course, presents the motorist with hazards and problems peculiar to that season. Snow and ice can make driving treacherous. There are certain rules which, if followed, can aid the motorist in avoiding an accident while driving in the winter.

First of all, be alert and prepared to meet any situation. Be sure that your windshield is clear of snow, ice, fog and frost. Windshield wiper blades, defrosters and headlights should be checked to ascertain that they are in good condition.

Make sure that your tires are also in good condition. Relying on worn, smooth tires is taking an unnecessary chance with your life and the lives of others. Tire chains should be used on snow and ice. Chains reduce stopping distance by almost one-half and also greatly increase starting and climbing traction ability.

Determine just how slippery the road is and then adjust your speed to road and weather conditions. To get the "feel" of the road try your brakes occasionally while driving slowly and away from traffic. When slowing down or coming to a stop, pump your brakes. Give yourself plenty of distance to stop by staying well behind the vehicle in front of you.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

State of Union Message: 'Hope Chest and Trousseau'

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress is being likened to a bride's hope chest and trousseau. It has:

Something old and something new, something borrowed and something blue.

The "blues" part is pretty well concealed—like an extra garter or something. The only touch of this coloration is an admission that something ought to be done for "our farm families" and the "pockets of chronic unemployment." These are the bad spots in the booming economy which are more bluntly and unkindly referred to by the Democrats as "depressed areas."

In the field of foreign policy, the President also admits things aren't as perfect as they might be because:

"The Soviet leaders are not yet willing to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace."

OTHERWISE, THE PRESIDENT'S message drips optimism and assurances that the Republican policies are responsible for it all. No bride ever walked up an aisle with more confidence that the present romance would last forever.

As far as the "something old and something new" are concerned, there is far more of the old and unfinished business in the message than there is of the new—three to one. In this respect the trousseau looks a little second-hand.

The new stuff now definitely nailed down includes:

1. A request for authority to make long-term commitments for foreign aid, subject to annual appropriations.

2. Balanced budget assurances for this year and next. This is taken to mean that there will have to be a number of sharp economies in government spending.

FOR THE PRESIDENT also says he will ask increased appropriations for foreign aid, U. S. Information Agency, continental defense, the soil bank, farm research, child welfare service, school aid, health research and 35,000 public housing units a year for the next two years.

3. A firm statement of policy that corporation and excise tax increases should not be allowed to expire April 1, and that tax cuts should be made only if they don't unbalance the budget and prevent a token reduction of national debt.

4. An admission that the administration will accept from Congress any alternative to last year's plan for federal reinsurance for fostering voluntary health insurance.

5. There are two new housing proposals. One is to provide federal assistance for more housing for the aged, to be built by private industry or charitable and non-profit organizations.

The other, minor proposal, is to raise home modernization loans above present limits of $2500 for three years.

6. SEVERAL IMPORTANT new changes in immigration law are officially proposed for the first time. Fingerprinting requirements for people coming to this country on temporary visas would be waived.

The President also proposed to base immigration quotas on the 1950 census instead of 1920. This won't make a great deal of difference in the number of immigrants admitted. But a companion proposal would allow greater flexibility in shifting quotas, if one country doesn't use its full share.

As far as the "hope chest" aspects of this State of the Union message are concerned, it is full of just that. The President lists nearly a score of specific subjects on which he says he will send Congress special messages later.

On top of all this, the President again asks specifically for another score of proposals out of nearly 100 which Congress did not pass last year.

Gov't Reports Newsprint Supplies For U. S. Publishers 'Dangerously Low'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that newsprint supplies for American newspapers have reached a "dangerously low point."

In a special report to a House newsprint subcommittee, the Commerce Department urged increased experimentation and "perhaps" government help in finding new ways to boost newsprint production.

The department also recommended increasing statistical studies to determine future needs for newsprint well in advance, and thus permit time to expand production.

The forest products division of the Commerce Department made the investigation on which the department based its report. U. S. embassies in 25 countries were cabled for information on foreign newsprint needs and production.

"This analysis shows a substantial world deficit in newsprint," and an apparent substantial deficit for United States publishers for some years to come. At this point there is little knowledge as to how the anticipated deficit after 1958 will be overcome.

The 86-page report predicted that smaller daily and weekly newspapers particularly "will be penalized by inadequate supply" of newsprint for at least the next few years.

The department said that in 1955 world production of newsprint totaled 12,500,000 tons—a 145,000 ton deficit in world needs. The U. S. share of the deficit was 100,000 tons.

U. S. newspapers had to dip into their inventories of newsprint to make up this deficit, the report said, and these inventories are "now at a dangerously low point and further significant reductions will not be possible."

The department said U. S. publishers may be able to rebuild their inventories out of this year's 13,280,000-ton newsprint production.

Loaf at Housework; It's Good for You

KINGSTON, R. I. — (AP) — Homemakers should take a 10-minute break every hour. So advises Prof. Ethyl R. Grady of the University of Rhode Island's college of home economics. "Women need never feel guilty when they take time out to read the morning paper or chat with a neighbor, or lie down for a few minutes," she said.

Professor Grady, an expert on the principles of work simplification, said "10 minutes of rest during each hour can mean more work accomplished than 60 minutes of work during each hour."

ALTUS, Okla. — Officials at Altus Air Force base have an unwelcome object to which they wish they could attach a propeller and wave goodbye. But the object — a 100-foot tall concrete tower — stands firm on its foundation. The space occupied by the tower is needed for future construction work.

The main headache faced by army engineers and base air installation crews is the fact that the tower can't be merely knocked over, because it would fall on a gymnasium under construction. No wrecking companies will undertake to do the job, nor will insurance companies issue a policy covering damage to surrounding structures.

New Uniforms for State Automobile Investigators

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special) — Automobile investigators under Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, East Moline, have a new uniform. Gone are the drab greens patterned after the U. S. Marine Corps uniforms. In their place are uniforms of light blue and navy blue with gold buttons. They are set off by black Sam Brown belts and sidearms.

The new uniform, like the old uniform, are for year round wear. They consist of a light blue cap with a black visor, light blue shirt with a black tie, light blue trousers with a light blue stripe down the sides. For indoors, investigators wear a light blue blouse with gold buttons. In winter they wear a navy blue overcoat. Black shoes and a black tie complete the uniform.

The old Marine uniform worn by automobile investigators was in use under former Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett (now Cook county clerk) and for a while during Carpenter's present term. Barrett got the Marine uniform idea from his being a Marine in World War II. Previously under the late Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, Chicago, investigators wore a khaki uniform.

The automobile investigators are the third set of uniformed officials under Carpenter. Driver license inspectors wear an almost identical uniform except for an "Eisenhower" jacket in place of the light blue blouse. A third uniform consisting of navy blue uniforms similar to those of city policemen are worn by statehouse parking policemen and guards.

State Treasurer Warren Wright, Park Ridge, has guards on duty night and day, required by bonding companies. They wear sidearms but not uniforms except for two stationed at the entrance to the Capitol where they do double duty acting as treasury guards under Wright and as uniformed police parking attendants under Secretary Carpenter.

There are also different sets of uniformed men under Gov. William G. Stratton. They consist of some 500 state policemen wearing khaki, sidearms and a Spanish-American war type of campaign hat which is equipped with bugles and braid, gold for sergeants and high ratings and silver for patrolmen, conservation officers and state park attendants.

Conservation officers replace the old-time game wardens or "rabbit shepherds". There are 130 of them. They are law enforcement officers who administer enforcement of state game laws. They wear a uniform consisting of olive drab shirts, trousers, and a heavy "Eisenhower" jacket, black shoes, green tie and a star and an outline of the state on their sleeves in purple and white thread.

There are upwards of 100 uniformed state park attendants, custodians, watchmen, supervisors and naturalists who wear dark green shirts, trousers and packets with a white outline of the state on their sleeves with a green oak tree in the center. At Lincoln's Tomb, Springfield, and Grant's Home, at Galena, park attendants wear dark blue uniforms for reasons of dignity.

Former State Sen. Arthur Van Hooser, Metropolis, father of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission, is slated for an important post with the group, it was reliably reported here this week. Van Hooser was chief author of the law which created the Commission back in the 88th General Assembly (1953). Because he was a senator he was not eligible for a post in the 1953 55 biennium but he is now. Just what Van Hooser's job will be is speculative but it is expected to be something in the form of an administrative assistant to the commission, perhaps in charge of aiding in the setting up a toll route or a system of routes in and across southern Illinois. An aide to Gov. William G. Stratton said Van Hooser is "understandably knowledgeable" about toll routes.

Cosponsors of the toll road commission with Van Hooser included Sens. Dennis J. Collins, DeKalb; Egbert Groen, Pekin; and Arthur K. Bidwell, River Forest. Also mentioned for a commission appointment is State Sen. R. G. Crisenberry, R., Murphysboro. Crisenberry however, to be eligible, would have to forego running for reelection this year, not too likely.

State aid to Illinois public schools for the 1954-55 school year was the highest on record. It totaled $84,879,581, a 13 1/2% increase over the $75,258,452 paid out for 1953-54. Largest allocation in downstate was $3,070,915 to Madison county. St. Clair drew $2,251,145; DuPage $2,317,330; Kane $1,585,266; Rock Island $1,844,877; and Will $1,047,333.

Cook county was allotted $30,561,001 with $20,250,504 for Chicago and $10,310,497 for Cook schools outside Chicago. Downstate claims as approved by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell, Champaign, amounted to $52,768,193. The increase grew out of the state legislature raising grants from $173 per pupil to $200.

Fifteen counties drew more than $1 million dollars each. County allotments in addition to those already mentioned, included: Adams $432,116; Brown $88,039; Bureau $309,687; Calhoun $112,218; Carroll $197,271; Edwards $174,352; Gallatin $155,113; Grundy $188,764; Henderson $99,210; Jo Daviess $289,664; Kendall $110,557; Macoupin $801,914; Montgomery $510,390; Saline $631,673; Stephenson $511,334; White $427,091; and Whiteside $767,232.

A statistical survey of the enrollment of students at the University of Illinois reveals that more than four out of every five students hail from Illinois with each of the 102 counties represented. The other students represent every state in the union, except Nevada, four U. S. districts, territories or possessions and 67 foreign countries. There are 77 men for every 33 women students.

It took weeks to clean one side of the ship's hull. She was scraped plank by plank right down to her keel to rid her of the foul, brackish accretion of seaweed, fossil and shell.

The atoll people joined happily in the work and then in the caulk- ing although there were not enough mauls and irons for them and they used coral chunks and coconut shells. This, Kauai explained to Naish, gave them a chance to identify themselves with the greatness of their sea-going past when the famous canoes had set out from Tahiti for Hawaii. The ship was a symbol to be cherished and main- tained, and even the smallest chil- dren understood that Naish had made a gift to Mata'ora of one of the ship's whaleboats and two casks of prime oil.

Mata'ora was proud beyond speech. He sailed off alone in the boat, was gone from dawn to sun- set, and was so entranced with her that he made no attempt to give orders to his people about the work they did on the ship. But Naish was secretly very much disturbed.

The people kept no regular work- ing hours. They paddled or swam out to the ship whenever they de- sired. Women brought their chil- dren, and the old men came along to watch and the dogs swam with them and circled the ship barking after they were chased off the hull. The women, their pareus hitched up above their knees, chatted among themselves, exchanged pieces of fruit, nursed their babies. The men often sat and listened to the gossip and took part in it and, when the mood was upon them, put down their tools and went for a swim, or they fished, ate, slept. With the sun near the meridian, they all stopped work, lay down anywhere on the hull and slept for a full two hours.

Only Naish, Bothwick and Larned kept to what resembled ship's routine. Kauai sometimes main- tained their hours and at other times went outside fishing and swim- ming with the men, to bring them back finally to work.

The rest of the crew had at the start taken to the atoll style. Those who had women rested with them during the midday period. Alfie never moved more than a few feet from his girl, and if she wish- ed to go for a swim he followed her. He failed to respond to any- thing like an order that was given to him and his face became hard- drawn, his eyes inimical as he re- ceived it.

"But the work will be done," Kauai told Naish. "You wait and see."

"I'm waiting," Naish said. "How long will this last, though?" "Aye! Till the ship is ready."

"A reasonable answer," Naish said.

But his vexation was about to boil into open rage and he scram- bled along the hull from Kauai as if to inspect the work.

He passed Mr. Bothwick crouch- ed dripping with sweat over a seam. Mr. Bothwick struck his caulking iron severe, loud blows. He barely looked up at Naish and yet in the glance was an ironic and quite detached curiosity.

Bothwick would have you know, Naish thought, that he finds little to fancy in this. He's pretty much right. The lad's discipline has fallen apart for sure. You're stuck, though, man. You can't do any- thing else.

The larboard side finished, Naish dived with Kauai again to shift the lines secured to the bottom coral. The anchor scopes were changed and the check lines to the palm tree boles on the atoll slacked off and a great part of the cargo shift- ed or was sent ashore on rafts made of canoes lashed together so that the starboard side could be reached.

Naish began to have hope. The difficult operation had been per- formed with no more than a few bruised fingers, a crushed toe, and the pace of the work was decid- edly faster.

Now the atoll people worked with an excited elation. They took im- mense pleasure in diving down to examine the side already repair- ed and ran their hands along the seams, patted and caressed the smooth planks.

The women were fascinated by Larned. He sat on the beach with them around him and instructed them in the use of sail palm and needle. Under his direction, they patched the sails or sewed up new ones.

Larned allowed the women to keep scraps of old canvas, even showed the more deft how to fash- ion sun bonnets and buckets. The men stopped on their way to the ship and stood around nervously shuffling their feet, too envious to speak.

Kauai mocked the men. "At sea, that's work for men," he said. "Here it's for women. But the rigging of the ship will be yours. Only first we have to finish the hull."

The men glared at Kauai and cursed him. But as he walked to- wards his canoe they came after him, and that night by the light of torches they worked at the scraping until nearly dawn. "Don't keep them so hard at it," Naish told Kauai when the men had gone ashore. "They might lose their in- terest altogether."

"No, my people are strange," Kauai said. "They're great believ- ers in dreams. They see the ship now as done, ready for sea. It's to them like a dream and they want that to come true. So all of a sudden they're eager to work."

"You've done very well," "Me?" Kauai smiled. "I know one thing—my people."

Artificial Heart Valve Saved Man

BOSTON — Twenty-seven- year-old Leo Caffrey Jr. of Paw- tucket, R. I., scarcely would be the ideal working companion in a post office.

He ticks. Just like a clock — or a time bomb, if you're the imagi- native type.

Caffrey, a former caterer, is pretty proud of his ticking. He is one of the few men in the world with a plastic heart valve. The Hufnagle valve, inserted into the aorta of his heart, accounts for the ticking. It also accounts for his being alive today.

A year ago, Caffrey was given two years to live. He had had rheumatic fever as a child, and finally underwent a rare operation to replace his leaking aortic valve. He was one of the first persons in the world to receive the valve, per- fected by Dr. Charles Hufnagle of Georgetown University.

The operation was performed at New England Deaconess Hospital here.

Today, Caffrey, married and the father of two children, Leo A., 3rd, 4½, and Linda, 3, is able to do light chores around the house and is even back at work.
